

A.R.T

During the session I learned about homeless people aren't always horrible - they might look scary but deep down they could be nice, caring people

- learned to respect elderly people then if you do that they will respect you back.
- Not to judge people if you don't know them.
- To be able to talk about death easily.
- How to react to homeless.

What I enjoyed -

I enjoyed getting put into groups and going of and making posters/and reading plays out.

I also enjoyed the play that Beth, Tasha, Gail and Peter did - it was really good and funny

It made me think about how others might feel towards things, and not to judge people if you don't know them.

Yes I would like to do something like this again on life-stuff like that.

You could let us do more things not so much talking.

ART - Almost Random Theatre Evaluation

- I learned that homeless people aren't scary and some people pretend to be one.
- I enjoyed the play about Richard and Penny.
- It helped me think about homeless people and what their lives were like.
- I would like to have it again.

Almost Random Theatre

What I learnt: I learnt that old people aren't always as happy as they seem on the outside. I also learnt that if their partner has died they could be lonely and don't tell others.

What did I enjoy: I liked the play between the grandpa and granddaughter and that they weren't scared to use realistic language.

What did it make me think about: The way that old people feel and how you could help.

would you like something like this again: Yeah, but less of the work on homeless people.

Almost Random Theatre

I learned how to express my opinions in a better way.

It was good how there was comedy and it made it some lighter.

It made me think a bit the way I usually think of old people and how I treat them.

It would be good to have a work shop on why there is so much bad in the world.

I would give more time to the afternoon workshop.
